

Benefits of a Content Services Platform

Vast amounts of critical business information are being created by the minute.
What are you doing to manage it?

The world around us demands digital access. Your organization needs a content services platform that can seamlessly connect information across your organization. Here are just a few reasons why our customers choose Systemware to help manage their valuable information assets.

Advanced Find

Locate content stored in multiple files or systems with granular indexing and federated search.

Deployment Flexibility

Using a node-based architecture, Content Cloud can be deployed on any infrastructure, from mainframe to the public cloud and any combination in-between.

Connect Content Globally

Connect and access critical business information across disparate systems no matter where it resides.

Invest for the Future

Mitigate risks by satisfying current and future compliance requirements with a modern content services platform.

Increase employee productivity

Automating business processes allows for less error and more time to focus resources on productive innovation efforts.

A Modern Infrastructure

A modern, compliant content services platform helps your organization stay in the forefront of technology.

Many of the world's largest organizations turn to Systemware for superior service and trusted advice from industry-leading subject matter experts. We are their resource, not only for content services solutions, but for help with compliance, security, and global access to critical business information. Systemware has been investing in our customers success for 40 years. We've got you covered.

